RHODE ISLAND IS LIKELY TO GO FOR SMITH

State Is One of Few Which Never Ratified Amendment for Prohibition

REPUBLICANS HOPEFUL

G. O. P. Does Not Expect More Than 5,000 Majority in November Vote

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Copyright 1928, by Post Pub. Co.

Providence, R. I.—Another doubtful state is Rhode Island and by doubtful is meant that the Republicans themselves would be surprised if they got more than 5,000 majority.

The Democrats are unusually confident. They know the Republican management is working tooth and nail to swing the state back to the Republican column, for the early canvasses showed a decided swing toward Smith. So this is a state in which last minute organizations will count for a great deal.

The Republicans are counting on the factional dispute that has arisen among the Catholics—the French Canadians being ranged against the Irish Catholics in a controversy which had its climax last year when the editor of a French language newspaper was excommunicated for his criticisms of the hierarchy.

The French Catholic vote is a big factor in Rhode Island. The Republicans have recognized it by placing Felix Hebert on the ticket as candidate for United States senator to oppose Senator Peter Kerr, Democrat. Mr. Hebert is not only a French Catholic but a Republican leader whose word has counted much in the past with his own people. Senator Gerry faces a hard fight for re-election as he probably will run behind Governor Smith and there is evidence that if the New York governor carries the state it will not be by much of a margin.

DECIDEDLY WET

This is a wet state—one of the few which not only would not pass an enforcement act but which never ratified the eighteenth amendment at all. Republicans from some of the oldest families here have bolted to Smith on the wet issue. Many of the foreign groups are influenced by prohibition, the Italians for example and many of the French Catholics who are not especially interested in the church dispute will vote for Smith because of a belief that he will bring light wines and beer.

Conditions in the textile mills have never been none too satisfactory, so some of the discontent due to part time employment will make itself felt in the anti-Republican voting.

An increase in registration has been noted and there seems no question that the Democrats have a little better of it on the increases.

Some factional fighting inside the Republican party has been kept from spreading down into the ranks but it does have the effect of reducing the momentum of an organization. The Democrats have funds and organization and are alert to the chance they have of turning a rock-ribbed Republican state into the Democratic column.

While the surface signs are that the Democrats may carry Rhode Island, it will only be if the Smith tide is running heavily among the masses of voters throughout New England. Gov. Smith will be here in a few days and probably will assist his cause materially because he will be given a roaring reception by his partisans. The Smith street parades stir up enthusiasm among his followers and after all they are the people who are going to get out the vote on election day rather than the organization.

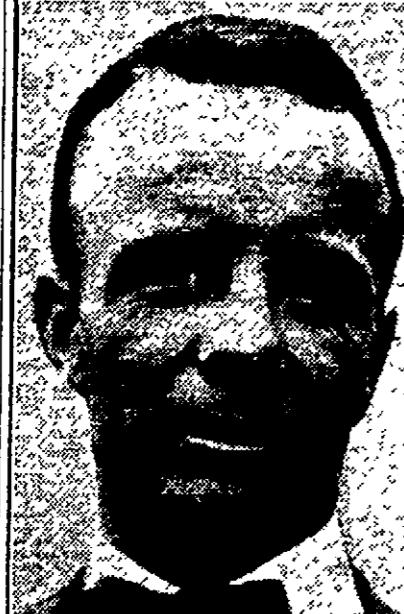

Rhode Island is a close state—it is claimed by both sides. The Democrats are absolutely confident and the Republicans are somewhat worried but they are also optimistic that between now and election day they can swing enough votes to get by.

HOOVER SURE HE WILL WIN IN ELECTION

Urges Followers to Continue Efforts—Ends Eastern Tour Tonight

BY JAMES L. WEST
Associated Press Staff Writer

New York—(AP)—Herbert Hoover declared Monday that he had not the slightest doubt of the outcome of the November election if the Republicans of the country would continue their efforts.

"The only danger is that of overconfidence," the Republican presidential candidate said at a conference with newspaper correspondents at his hotel. This was the first public statement regarding the outcome of the election which Hoover has made since the inception of the campaign.

"Never has there been a greater unity in the Republican party in a quarter of a century than at this moment," the nominee said. "We have an able organization and more zeal is being shown than ever before."

SILENT ON ISSUES

Hoover declined to discuss issues of the campaign but in response to questions he said prosperity was one of the larger issues.

The Republican standard bearer said the probabilities were that on his westward trip and final drive he would speak in St. Louis, Hoover will leave Washington on Oct. 30, and will reach his home at Palo Alto seat of Stanford university, on Nov. 5, to make a final appeal to the voters over the radio to keep the Republican party in control of the federal government.

4 MISSIONARY BISHOPS CONFIRMED AT MEETING

Washington—(AP)—The house of deputies of the Episcopal church, in general convention here Monday, confirmed the elections of four missionary bishops Saturday by the house of bishops. The new bishops are:

Wyoming, the Rev. George H. Thomas, rector of St. Paul church, Chicago; for Nevada, the Rev. Frederick B. Goodwin of Warsaw, Va.; for southern Brazil, the Rt. Rev. W. M. Thomas, now suffragan bishop to southern Brazil; for Tokoku, Japan, the Rev. Norman S. Blinsted, now minister of the English speaking congregation at Tokio.

The allied governments concerned are themselves not quite sure as to what sums they can expect, and the German government has not formulated any proposals.

Concerning debts, Premier Poincaré is described as having said most positively that as far as the French government is concerned there is no intention of asking the United States to reduce the debt by a sou. His position is that France has already acknowledged the debt, was paying installments on under the Mellon-Berenger settlement and will not question the obligation.

SKIDDING CAR HITS POST—DRIVER KILLED

Manitowoc—(AP)—A skidding automobile collision on County Highway 1, near Port Washington Sunday night resulted in the death of William O'Connell of Manitowoc, and injury to Henry Grainger of Sheboygan.

He was the driver of a car in which Charles Carle, also of Manitowoc, was riding when it went off the highway three miles west of there Saturday night.

Carle died in the Manitowoc hospital at 2 o'clock Monday morning from a fractured skull. Carl, 26, nephew, suffered cuts and bruises.

O'Connell died in the Manitowoc hospital Monday morning from internal injuries resulting from the accident.

Each of the men was driving a car that figured in the accident. Rain, which blurred windshield and made pavements dangerous, was blamed for the collision near Port Washington a short time later so that the factor, as well as almost two score investigation might be carried on in private as heretofore.

FORMER PRESIDENT OF UNITED PRESS IS DEAD

Maplewood, N. J.—(AP)—Charles Lee, formerly president and one of the founders of the United Press association, died at his home here Saturday morning. He was 62 years old.

Mr. Lee was born in Wellington, Ohio, and was graduated from Northwestern university. In 1897, with H. P. Cook of California, and John Van-Derhook of New York, he organized the United Press association and served as president for six years.

"In less than a year the whip came back to me with its new owner," the general often said in speaking of the romance. They were married at the home of her father, Captain Tomie, Atchafalaya plantation, Carroll Parish, La., the following November.

KOHLER ADVOCATES
CODE ON AVIATION IN WEEKEND TALK

Flying Brings New Problems, Says Candidate for Governor

Wisconsin Rapids — (P) — Candidates' promotion and aviation enthusiasm were combined in Walter J. Kohler's addresses over the weekend.

He spoke at Berlin Saturday evening on his proposals for agriculture. If he is elected governor, then came here to speak at the dedication of the Tri-cities airport. In the latter talk he advocated a fair aviation code.

One of the vital steps in the solution of the farm problem is further development of cooperative organizations, aids involving the farmer's marketing problems, and in coordinating and strengthening the marketing activities.

"We cannot expect that the farmer, as an individual operator, can hold his own in the battle for the world's markets. Even great industries with elaborate sales organizations frequently find marketing their most serious problem. I see no solution of this problem for the farmer except through organized and coordinated distribution."

"The American farmer should have a protected home market, and this and the federal government should maintain adequate tariff on agricultural products, increasing present rates where necessary. He then endorsed government farmer by gathering and disseminating of information on the production and marketing, and endorsed the St. Lawrence Waterway.

"Our state government can and should play an increasingly important part in bettering the conditions of the farmers, but the first step toward this goal must be to make government itself efficient, economical and business-like. He reiterated his denunciation of farmers' "professional friends" among the politicians, saying "there is little evidence that they have done anything or will do anything to help him. They unquestionably have a tremendous interest in the farm problem, but their interest is principally directed to getting the farmers voted."

Here tonight, the candidates said, Wisconsin Rapids, Neenah, and Port Edwards are entering a new field of progress, and usefulness to the state opening of the Tri-City Airport marking a "new maturity in development of these three counties."

It is becoming increasingly true that the traveler of the future will think of cities primarily in terms of the completeness, size and maintenance of their airports as well as in terms of other public or community activities, said the first man to make a campaign for governor by airplane. Air travel, "of which I have done considerable during the past few months, immeasurably widens the radius of an individual's activity."

Mr. Kohler described Kohler airport and invited all the fliers here to visit it.

After taking up some of the history of aviation, Mr. Kohler said:

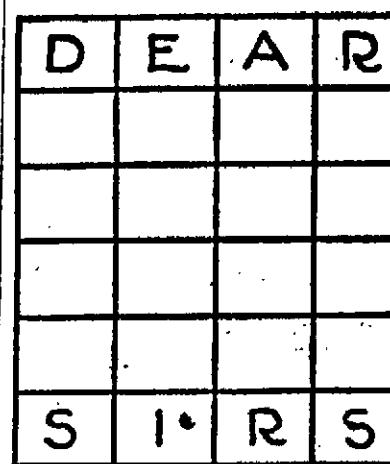

"Flying has brought with it new opportunities and new problems for which there is no precedent in all history to assist in their solution. But the growth in commercial and private air transport has brought with it the necessity of a uniform public control over flying, for the purpose of protecting the public good and eliminating, in so far as possible, the hazardous and irresponsible activities which in some measure have marred aviation in the past. In sincerely believe that flying will contribute an essential element of Wisconsin's future greatness. However, the interests of safety and progress in flying demand a comprehensive Wisconsin aviation code in harmony with the federal law."

ONE WEEK REMAINS TO REGISTER, CITY
VOTERS ARE WARNED

Registrations Numbering 50 Daily, Reports Clerk at City Hall

Voters have only about one more week in which to register for the regular election on Nov. 6. Carl Becher, city clerk, warned Monday. Registrations may be made at his office up to 5 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, Oct. 30. No registrations can be accepted after that time, the law provides, as the clerk must have time to get his lists ready for election day.

Approximately 50 persons have been registering daily for more than a week, the clerk reports. The majority of new registrations are being made by women.

Since Wisconsin's permanent registration law went into effect Sept. 1, 1927, every voter must register in person "either in the city clerk's office or in places specified and under deputies appointed and sworn in by him," the clerk pointed out. Casting a vote by being sworn and identified by two householders on election day does not place one on the registration lists in the office of the city clerk.

"Registration is the enrollment of a voter's name on the registration or poll lists on file in the office of the city clerk," Mr. Becher said. "The state constitution prescribes who may vote by stating the qualifications required of voters, and to permit only qualified voters to vote, it is necessary to prepare registration or poll lists."

Information required for registration includes name, address, length of residence in state in election district, and whether native or naturalized citizen. This information must be sworn to be the city clerk or his deputy.

Change of address within 10 days of an election will prevent a citizen from voting. An address change must be registered with the city clerk at least 10 days prior to an election to comply with the law that a voter must live in an election district ten days before he may vote, according to the city clerk.

If the present rate of registration continues, more than 12,000 voters in Appleton will be registered, it is estimated by the clerk.

EX-CONVICT TALKS AT ROTARIANS' LUNCHEON

A former convict, Louis Fenton, will speak at the regular meeting of Rotary club Tuesday noon at the Hotel Northern and before the high school assembly at 2:15 Tuesday afternoon. The lecture work being done by Mr. Fenton is recognized and recommended by educators, police, judges, criminologists and social workers all over the country because of its wholesome and inspiring content.

The theme of his talk is that crime does not pay, and he shows how poolrooms, cigarettes, gambling and liquor are often the starting points toward careers of crime. Mr. Fenton has devoted his life to the salvation of young people who might accidentally or intentionally walk into criminal paths.

Murphy was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas O. Murphy—who lived on S. Cherry-st. before moving to Chicago a little more than a year ago.

Approximately 1,000 feet of concrete road, 20 feet wide has been laid on highway 10 between Weyauwega and Waupaca by the Garvey-Weyenberg Construction company. The section of concrete to be paved is 2.3 miles long and is the last gap of unpaved road on highway 10. Work at the present time is delayed because of the rainy spell, according to construction men. It is expected the section will be open to traffic within the next month.

Workmen are still working on the foundation for the bridge which is to span Crystal lake near the city limits of Waupaca on highway 10. The bridge will be constructed of steel and will probably be completed within the next month.

300 MORE TICKETS
MUST BE SOLD HERE FOR ARTIST SERIES

This Year's Program Will Cost $6,500, Waterman Announces

At least 300 more season tickets must be sold to insure the financial success of the Community Artist Series, according to Carl J. Waterman, dean of the Lawrence Conservatory of Music. This year's series, will cost $6,500, $700 more than any series ever offered in Appleton. Every attraction is considered a peer in his field and Rosa Ponselle, the last number of the course, is acclaimed the greatest dramatic soprano in the world.

The Community Artist series has grown out of a combination lecture and musical course offered to the Appleton public 10 years ago. After several seasons of lecture, dramatic and musical attractions, the lecture and dramatic numbers were withdrawn because of the great demand for musical attractions and for the past six years the programs have been entirely musical. Each year the general excellence of the series has increased and with it the patronage of the public, until now it is possible to offer a course of this year's proportions.

Originally the course was started by a group of representatives from churches and organizations in the city in an effort to provide entertainment of a high nature. In 1922 the project was taken over by the Lawrence conservatory, and the name was changed to the Community Artist series. The management relies entirely on the seat sale to finance the course and any surplus is turned into better attractions for the next course.

Famous artists which have come to Appleton during the past six years under the auspices of the Community Artist Series are Tito Schipa, Florence Easton, Katherine Meisle, Louis Gravure, Reinhard Werrenrath, May Peterson, Arthur Middleton, Queenie Mario, vocalists; Jacques Thibaut, Bronislav Huberman, Harry Farberman, violinists; Harold Bauer, Ignatz Friedman, Arthur Shattuck, Walter Gieseking, Myer and Patterson, pianists. Ensemble groups which have appeared are the Flonzaley string quartet, London string quartet, Russian Symphonic choir, De Reske singers, Chicago and Minneapolis symphony orchestras, New York Little Symphony and the English Singers.

Unique Method Doctors Advise for Home Use Gives Almost Instant Relief

Glad that she took her doctor's advice instead of allowing neglect to make her feel more miserable.

Mrs. Albert H. Haines now realizes how quickly one can get rid of a cold.

For doctors are now advising home use of a pleasant hospital method that has brought surprisingly quick relief to numbers of people in Appleton and vicinity.

Mrs. Haines had neglected her cold three days in the hope it would "cure itself." Instead, congestion started spreading so that she called the doctor, who advised double strength doses of Ayer's Pectoral. Relief began almost instantly, he reports. In another hour or so the medication of wild cherry, terpine hydrate, etc., was absorbed by her system, loosening up congestion. By night her temperature was normal, the "achy" feeling was gone and in a day or so there was no trace left of the cold.

Note: Often colds reported daily—

all certified attending physician.

This hospital certified medicine quickly penetrates and heals inflamed linings of the air passages.

Each dose of Ayer's Pectoral helps to lay congestion and drive away the cold from the nose passages, throat and chest.

Just a few pleasant spoonfuls of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral now and you too, will feel like a different person tomorrow. At Schlitz Bros. and all druggists—60c, and twice as much in $1.00 hospital size.

URGE CHAMBER MEMBER TO WATCH CITY BUDGET

A suggestion that members of the community welfare committee of the chamber of commerce interested in garbage disposal, sewerage disposal, and similar city projects co-operate with the city and attend the budget meetings of the council this fall, is contained in the report of T. E. Orbison, who was appointed by the chamber committee to interview Mayor A. C. Rule on the garbage disposal problem.

The council put $25,000 in the city budget last year for garbage disposal, money was used for other purposes, the report states. Mr. Orbison's report will be turned over to the community welfare committee at its next meeting.

WHIRLWIND

BY ELEANOR EARLY

SYNOPSIS OF INTRODUCTION
Sybil Thorne, a young society belle, was said to be the prettiest girl in Boston. When she was 18 she fell in love with a private, John Lawrence, and after a short courtship, she awoke one morning to find that John had entrained herself to the night and left a note for her.

CHAPTER I
He left a note for her with a boy at camp. A heartbroken little note, scribbled with a stubby pencil on a sheet of Y. M. C. A. paper: "..... Goodbye, little girl, goodbye. Oh, I love you so, my precious wife-to-be..... I love you. I love you....."

She carried it for months down the front of her dress next her heart. Girls that summer were wearing V-neck blouses cut so low that she could look down and see the folded edge peeking up from the ribbons of her little satin camisole.

Whenever she was alone she read it again and again. By Christmas, with kisses and with tears, it was worn so thin it was falling apart. Then Sybil put it in the box where she kept her trinkets, under the puffy blue satin pad that lined the cover. And when she slipped it there, a crushing sense of finality came over her. As if that was the end. As if John Lawrence had perished with his last crumbling protestations and she would never see him again.

And that night a cable came: "Missing in action."

They tried to buoy her up. To sustain their own faltering hopes.

"That doesn't mean he's dead, Sybil. Probably he's in a hospital somewhere. Oh, my dear, you mustn't take on like this! Don't give up hope. Everything may be all right."

But Sybil knew better. "He's dead," she shrieked through her tears. "Dead, I tell you! I know. He came to me in a dream, all blood. So I know, you see, that he is dead."

After the war life had been very gay for Sybil's crew. John Lawrence was 10 months missing then. "Presumably dead," the record said.

Tad came home, romantically bronzed, and "different" looking. Something about his eyes and the gray streak that ran through his hair. He was very sweet to Sybil and talked to her of "deathless glory" and "heritages." He gave her a bit of verse of Alfred Noyes' that he had clipped from an English paper in Paris and Sybil carried it in her purse until it crumbled to pieces.

But all the time she knew it was a Grand Pretense. The world was full of noble words and fine phrases. People thought they meant them, but they didn't really.

They could tell her John died for humanity till they were black in their faces. She knew he didn't want to die for humanity, or glory—or anything else. He wanted to live for her. It wasn't fair. All the talk about "sacred trusts" and "making the world safe for democracy!" People couldn't really mean it, or they wouldn't forget so soon. Nothing seemed to make much difference, except having a good time. Everybody wanted a good time.

Even Tad. He looked so handsome in uniform, with his swagger English cap and his silver shoulder bars. Tad had come home a captain with a Croix de Guerre and two wound stripes. His mother was tremendously proud of him and wanted him to go everywhere with her. She hated to have him go back to civics, but the second day home he went to his tailor for some new clothes.

"If you knew how I hate the sight of the damn things!" he said of his beautiful white breeches and his gorgeous blouse.

Sybil wanted to wear mourning for John, but the family had dissuaded her.

"Since your engagement was never announced, dear," coaxed her mother, "I really think it would be rather poor taste. Nobody really knows you see, that you were actually planning to be married."

"But I want them to!" cried Sybil.

wore what she had left short of necessity.

Brothers of the ex-service men began to grow up. They were, for the most part, a decadent lot, their delinquencies emphasized by contrast. They were called Parlor Snakes, Cake Eaters and Lounge Lizards. At first they went in for skinning, pinch-backed suits with high waist lines. They cultivated a carriage that rivaled the popular Debilitate Slouch and became Dancing Fools with long hair. When the Prince of Wales visited America, they changed their sartorial effects and embraced baggy models.

"Can't you try to snap out of it, Sybil?" begged Tad. "It isn't doing John any good, you know. He wouldn't want you to take on like this. And it's pretty tough on Mother. You're too darn smart to go dragging round like an old woman. It's a good old world, after all. And we're only young once."

He brought men to the house and urged her to make up parties. "We're a girl short, Sybil," he used to say. "Dick's girl went back on him. Won't you fill in like a good sport? Dick Wright — you know, he's a prince of a fellow."

Of course, she saw through Tad, but to please him, she went some times.

The Eighteenth Amendment had been passed and drink was becoming lamentably smart. Flasks had come in; and a really daring present for a man to give a girl was an enameled flaskette for her bag. Girls had begun to smoke, too. Men were saying you never knew whether a girl would be insulted if you offered her a cigarette or offended if you didn't.

Soldiers everywhere had been mustered out of service and women were still feting them. Doughboys walked where angels feared to tread and gobs were household pets. It was eminently respectable for "nice" girls to serape acquaintance with men in uniform. The marines had become drinking lions. Everywhere the ex-service man was sitting pretty. Unless, of course, he happened to be incapacitated, or looking for a job.

Club women were beginning to get excited and talk reforms. For a crime wave hit the country.... And even the girls were going crazy. They rolled their stockings and checked their corsets when they went to dances. Eventually they discarded them altogether, but that was not until later.

Cosmetics sprang into favor and women began to make up like Jezebels.

"The evils of the war," became a sort of slogan. People talked despairingly of "the youth of the land" and wondered what they were going to do about it. Important persons were interviewed on what they thought of the Modern Girl. Desiring to be broadminded, they eulogized her, not knowing what it was all about. And, meantime, she went from bad to worse.

Someone had coined the word Flapper. And the Flappers, little sisters to the War Brides, took to dressing exactly alike. They wore colored skirts of homespun, frayed by the bottom, instead of hemmed. Brilliant little sweaters that they called silks. Flat-soled shoes everyone, until then, had worn high heels. And large hats with flat crowns clapped on the sides of their heads. They cut their hair and called it Castle Clips, for Irene Castle, who had lost her own after a fever and names of "those present" and lo, Sybil Thorne's led all the rest.

Loyal Tad defended her to their parents.

"She's all right," he said. "She's only acting crazy. Grief has turned her head a little, I think."

"Sorrow should make woman finer," reminded his father, sternly.

"It's only little girls who take to cures such as Sybil has."

"People will start talking first thing we know," wailed Mrs. Thorne, in her innocence.

At heart, Sybil was thoroughly miserable.

"I think," she told Tad, "that God really meant me to be a good girl. I've made such an awful bungle trying to be bad."

Girls of her old crowd had become the Younger Married Set. A few years later they were the Younger Divorced Set. Tad and Sybil were drifting apart.

"We're a couple of eggs," she told him affably one day.

And stretching himself lazily, he retorted good naturedly:

"You are making a bit of a fool of yourself, old girl. Why don't you marry Craig Newhall?"

People that summer had come to regard young Newhall as Sybil's particular property. Most girls would have been delighted at the assumption, for Craig was probably the most eligible bachelor in Boston. Either because he was exceptionally clever, or because of his irreproachable social connections, he had been admitted, following his graduation from Harvard, to membership in the finest legal firm in the city.

He was long and thin and brown like coffee with cream in it. And his eyes were amazing blue. When he looked at her contemplatively, Sybil always thought of a bit of a blunder: "Blue was the sky, blue as your eye. Which is the terrible reason why it's easy to live and hard to die."

Now she glanced curiously at Tad. "Why, Taddy," she parried, "no body'd want to marry me. I'm just a-a-a"

Irretrievably she paused. How much, after all, was it wise for a girl to tell her brother?

(To Be Continued)

Sybil had come to accept Craig as a sort of lover and Tad heard an amazin' recital—in the next chapter.

AN OCCASIONAL WIFE

A lady in Chicago has just divorced her husband—the same one—for the third time. "To have and to hold" in her case seems to depend upon how much the patient man is able to spend on renewing and breaking the intermittent bond. No doubt this arrangement is more to be commended than swapping mates after each divorce, but it leads to a few obvious reflections.

In each case the lady won her divorce for cruelty. On one occasion she stepped over to the parson's on the day following the divorce to take up life again with the ogre she had painted in all his vices to the court. Our present day interpretation of grounds for divorce in many states is a marvelous psychological incentive to the magnifying of petty grudges, the writing down of passing quarrels in diaries, the raising of small neglects into mountainous offenses.

It is trial marriage in fact if not in theory, for anybody who can afford to hire attorneys.

This Chicago couple could just as well have settled their three spats at home as in court. But as the law stood ready and eager to make mountains out of molehills, and to exaggerate into fearsome legal misdemeanors the tiffs most couples tide-over by exercise of patience and a sense of humor, they have accepted these facilities and paid for them. The lady says it will be another man next time, but her case history justifies a fear that she will backslide and wind up her days by the side of the old standby. The habit is too strong for her.

Judge Lindsey wanted to improve on these existing encouragements to divorce by removing the expense. He wanted any young couple to know that they could settle the first tiff by a simple striking apart of hands, or the legal equivalent, without hiring a lawyer. He didn't want this privilege restricted to the well-to-do. Marriage, he felt, was too forbidding and too many youngsters were dodging the benefit of clergy.

The judge knows the seamy side of juvenile life and he may be right about that. What he ignores, and what cannot be ignored, is the effect upon innumerable couples now happily married of having marriage and divorce made as inconsequential an affair as it has been to this Chicago pair with their ready pocketbooks. The high cost of lawyers may cause some errors out of wedlock but it prevents a great many more mistakes on the part of those who have accepted the bars and can't afford to slip out of them at the first quarrel or the first sight of a new flame.

TRAGEDY—HERE AND ABROAD

We have to be close to things to feel very deeply about them. Anything that happens far away, in a place we have never seen, does not touch our emotions.

The whole nation shuddered the other day when 17 convicts were burned to death in an Ohio prison plant. The tragedy shocked us inexplicably.

But a day or so later Dr. S. Parkes Cadman, chairman of the China Famine Relief organization in New York, received advices from China saying that 200,000 people had been massacred in a Moslem outbreak in Kansu province, China. And most of us, probably, never gave it a second thought.

The butchery of 200,000 people is almost too frightful to think about. But it doesn't stir us very much. It happened too far away—and the victims were Chinese, whom we don't understand.

CONSERVING THE OIL SUPPLY

Walter C. Teagle, president of the Standard Oil company of New Jersey, returning from a conference with foreign oil men, reports that leaders of the world's petroleum industry have come to agreement about a very important matter.

They realize, he says, that the future prosperity of the industry depends on the voluntary cooperation of producers, large and small, to prevent over-production. And realizing it, they propose to do something about it. Restriction has already begun in some fields, and will be undertaken immediately in others. Production will be limited, for instance, in Venezuela, where the lavish output lately has been a big factor in breaking down the crude oil market.

This policy will be welcomed by conservationists outside of the industry as well as inside. Limitation of output may make prices a little higher than they would otherwise be. But that phase should be temporary and unobjectionable, if the matter is handled with due fairness to the public. Prices will rise naturally, after the temporary surplus was used up, if the oil pools were drained prematurely. Rational conservation of the crude oil supply should save money to both industry and public in the long run, and perform a useful public service by preventing the premature exhaustion of the most useful motor fuel.

GOOD ROADS BOND ISSUES

The election of a president is not the only important issue facing the voters at the coming election.

Bond issues for highway improvements, totaling the amazing sum of $300,000,000, will be passed on by voters in the various states.

This speaks volumes for the way our civilization is developing. Many men and women who have not yet reached middle age can recall the day when a paved road in the country was almost unheard of; when wagons and carriages plowed along through sand and dust in dry weather and through deep mud in wet. A decade ago, when a motorist asked another how the roads were on a certain route, he meant, "Are they passable, or are they all mud and sink holes?" Now, when he asks that question, he simply wants to know if they are smooth enough for him to drive at 50 miles an hour, or if he needs resurfacing and will hold his speed down to 25.

Undoubtedly, the voters will approve the bulk of these bond issues. Good roads are vital to our national welfare.

THE BIG GRAIN YIELD

You would think, offhand, that the man who makes his living by raising food products on the farm would be delighted with a big yield. The more the better; that sounds quite reasonable.

But it doesn't work out that way. The wheat price, right now, is away down, and it is going lower. Why? Simply because there are bumper crops everywhere, from Canada to the Argentine. Nature is bountiful and kind this year; and the result is that the men who depend on nature's bounty are going broke.

That simple fact testifies more eloquently than anything else to the fact that we need to do something about the farm situation. Something is badly out of joint somewhere when a year of plenty is a year of want. At some place in our economic machine we have quite perverted the natural order of things.

POSING WITH THE PRESIDENT

The Rt. Rev. C. B. Brewster, Episcopal bishop of Connecticut, believes that posing with the president for a picture is a waste of valuable time.

When the Episcopal House of Bishops, meeting in Washington, went to the White House to be photographed with Mr. Coolidge, Bishop Brewster objected.

"We shouldn't take time from important business to do this," he said.

That's a common-sense idea, and we applaud it. But we would applaud even louder if somebody should object to the process on the grounds that it would waste the time of the president.

Surely, the president of the United States is too busy to have to pose for pictures with every publicity-seeking man or group of men that visit Washington.

House rents are 13% per cent cheaper than they were in 1924. Nobody uses houses much any more.

Oil had some power the critics give us to see ourselves as others see us when we honk our horns in the Sunday parade.

The Remedy is Worse Than the Malady

ONE GUY WHO doesn't know his own strength is Wallie Scherck of the sheriff's office. His handclasp is a little too cordial at times for a comparative midget, as I can testify—and I sometimes wonder if my ribs will be allowed to grow old gracefully.

Now here's a little tip which was whispered to me by the courthouse reporter—I'm passing it on for the benefit of humanity. "When Wallie comes around," said the C. H. R., "I always talk important business to him—something about the last raid, or how the election is coming on. Then he becomes so interested that he forgets about wanting to shake hands. I need my fingers for the typewriter."

THIS REALLY HURTS

Leo, the Tail-Twister of the Lions, springs this one on Jack Belanger of the telephone company:

The telephone rang, after stepping through a toy drum, skinning his shin on a mislaid chair and sitting on a tack. Jack got to the telephone.

"Hello," came the answer. "Are you an official of the Telephone Co?"

"Yes, what do you want?"

"How do you like getting out at 2 o'clock in answer to the wrong number?"

—AND THERE ARE OTHERS

Mrs. Smythe—"I'm soliciting for a charity organization. What do you do with your cast-off clothes?"

Mr. Smith—"I hang them up carefully and go to bed. Then in the morning I put them on again."

YOU TOO, BRUTUS?

Olson—"How did you come to break your resolution to quit smoking?"

Yonson—"When I made the resolution I was positive my wife was going to give me a box of cigars for Christmas. She gave me neckties instead."

THAT PROVES IT

A Chicago man the other day took an extra big drink of corn whiskey, and shortly began to see reptiles, also animals of assorted colors. So he rented a room and opened a museum. Many people paid 25 cents admission and when they saw only an empty room they called a policeman. The policeman was going to arrest him, but the man got him off in a corner and gave him a drink. The policeman then gave the man $300 for half interest in the show.

A lot of folks think the first duty of a newspaper is to print the news—on the other fellow.

"How do you do, my dear?" said the dignified old lady to the shy little girl.

"Quite well, thank you," replied the child politely.

There was a pause, then—"Why don't you ask me how I am?" asked the lady.

"Because I don't want to know," was the reply.

"Should evening dresses ever be worn at bridge parties?"

"No, in playing cards it is only necessary to show your hand."

LOOKING BACKWARD

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Monday, Oct. 27, 1903

The farmers were taking advantage of the fine weather to market their potatoes. Hundreds of bushels were brought to town daily and sold on the street. They brought about 60 cents a bushel. Apples also were plentiful and ranged in price from 60 to 80 cents a bushel.

Eggs were very scarce and exceptionally high.

The retail price was 22 cents a dozen.

A marriage license was issued to Peter Stein and Christina Olson, both of Appleton.

The members of the S. C. club surprised Miss Emma Semler at her home on Durkee the previous night.

Mrs. Albert B. Weissenberg was to entertain a number of ladies at cards at her home on the corner of College avenue and Meade street the following afternoon.

F. S. Bradford had returned from a business trip to Chicago.

The Rev. Theodore Marti, who had visited his home in Germany for the previous three months, landed in New York that day and was expected to reach Appleton the following Friday.

TEN YEARS AGO

Monday, Oct. 21, 1918

The German reply to the last Wilson peace note was received that day. Germany announced that orders had been issued to all submarine commanders to stop the torpedeing of passenger ships.

The German east turning movement backward continued in full swing the 21st.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Leibshien celebrated their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary at their home in Grand Chute the previous Sunday.

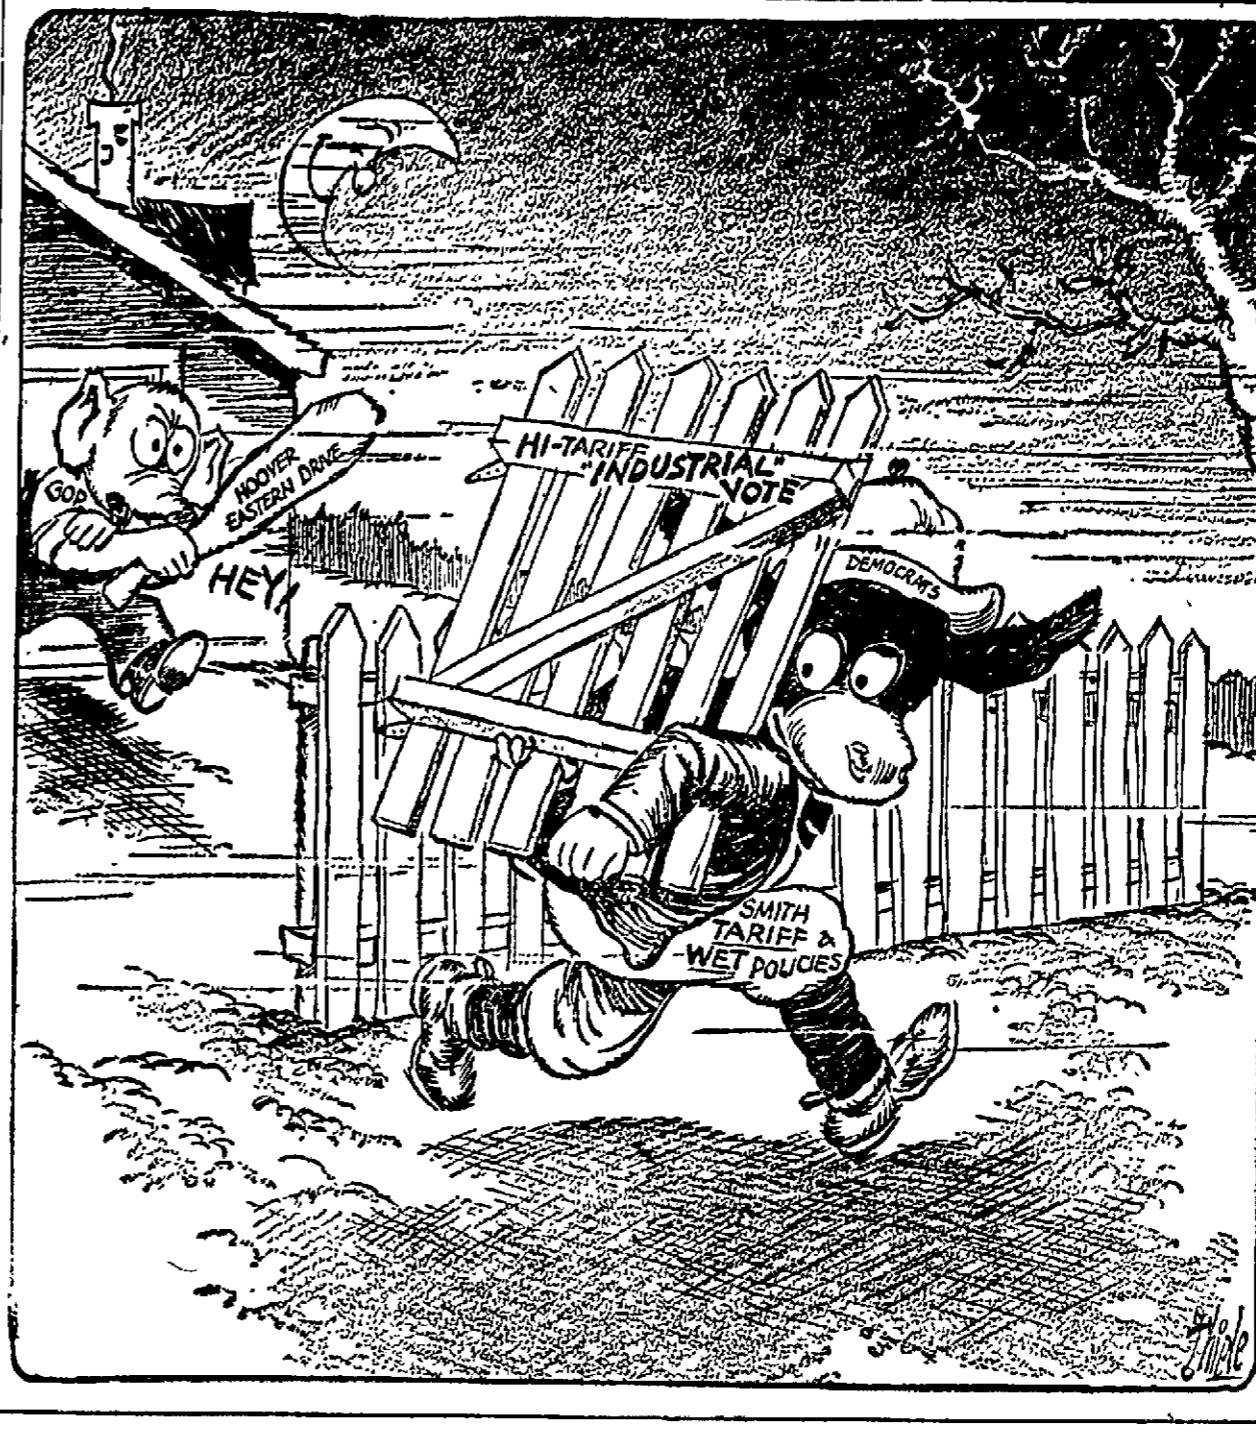

Mr. and Mrs. N. O'Connell entertained a party of Appleton and Neenah friends at their home on Superior road the previous night.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Morrison et al. observed their silver wedding anniversary the previous day. The Rev. Theodore Marti gave a sermon on the text that was used for the original wedding ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Morris and family, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Yoonen and family, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Steens and family, Mr. and Mrs. John Tratz and family of Menasha, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Zuehlke and family and Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Langenberg autoed to the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Wagner at New London on the previous day.

A German broke the record for piano playing by keeping at it for 52 hours. The unofficial record, of course, is held by the girl next door.

SELF DISCIPLINE BRINGS HAPPINESS

This is no mush. It is just a bit of physiology. The prize definition for health is happiness. So I am strictly within my province. Habit interests the student of psychology, tho it is essentially a matter of physiology and pathology or health and disease.

Take the habit of brushing the teeth. A great deal of thought and endeavor on the part of health and school authorities is given to the encouragement of this habit among school children. Aside from the most question of the prevention of decay of the teeth, it is quite reasonable to believe that tooth brush drills and various other methods of encouraging this habit among school children do instill in the young mind the desire to preserve the teeth, and this desire must inevitably lead a good many of these children to seek proper dental treatment earlier in life than they would have done without such instruction.

With many excellent dental authorities who perhaps hesitate to express their views bluntly, I believe that tooth brushing in itself has practically nothing to do with the conservation of the teeth, and the wisdom of all this expensive machinery by which we seek to imbue the young mind with the wish to save the teeth is debatable. It is my opinion that the proper teaching of physiology in the schools would accomplish much more in the right direction and at less expense to the community and to the parents of the children concerned. Here, of course, my views clash with the commercial propaganda and are unlikely to prevail.

Take your own habit of brushing your teeth—if you have the habit.

Naturally you cherish a smug little notion that it is respectable refined polite, sanitary and all that.

You rather like to think that the habit is a hallmark of culture. Then, too, you actually suffer from that dirty feeling if anything happens to prevent you from using the toothbrush at the usual time.

If you can derive any comfort or satisfaction out of the rite, certainly it doesn't do any serious harm.</p

END WALL REMOVAL COST IS TOO HIGH, COMMITTEE REPORTS

Lack of Funds Prevented Group from Carrying Out Board's Orders

The Outagamie-co highway commission has not carried out the resolution of the county board, adopted last April, which provided that concrete end walls should be removed, because it was found that the cost would be prohibitive, according to A. G. Brusewitz, county highway commissioner, and F. R. Appleton, chairman of the county highway committee.

According to Mr. Brusewitz, a survey and an estimate resulted in the report that the cost of removing culvert and end walls on county, state, and federal highways and making necessary repairs after the removal would cost $20,000.

Since this sum was not available, Mr. Brusewitz and Mr. Appleton said, it was not possible to go ahead with the work. Both these men expressed the belief that something would be done at the November session of the county board to provide funds to have the end walls removed.

During the summer there was at least one serious accident as a result of the culvert end walls. This occurred when a small sedan, carrying an entire family on its way to Eland, crashed into a wall on highway 26 near Hortonville. Several of the occupants of the car were seriously injured and the car was demolished.

The passage of the resolution last fall calling for the abolishment of end walls was the culmination of a long fight led by Supervisor Iaton Jansen of Little Chute. In November, 1927, Mr. Jansen proposed the resolution but he received little support and the matter was dropped until the February session of this year when again Mr. Jansen brought in a resolution. He called attention to the fact that there was no need for the end walls and that they merely constituted a traffic hazard which endangered the life of motorists. The matter was referred to the highway committee which recommended that it be laid over.

Finally in April a third resolution was presented. Supervisors Jansen, John Niesen, Joseph Doerfler, T. H. Ryan signed the resolution and after a short discussion it was adopted by a vote of 29 to 11.

CRIPPLED CHILDREN SURVEY POSTPONED

The state survey of crippled children in Outagamie-co will not start until next year, according to members of Civic Council which has been instrumental in ascertaining the situation in the county and proposing the opening of special schools or special grades where crippled children may receive general treatment and an education.

Several months ago a county survey was made for the council but was not considered complete enough by the state association for disabled children. The new survey will be supervised by Miss Margaret Lison. She will be in Appleton next month or in December to make plans for the work which is expected to start in January or February.

Some Virgin Timber Still Stands In Northern Parks

State parks are performing a tremendous service in preserving, before it is too late, the small amounts of actual virgin timber land that yet remains in Wisconsin.

Few more impressive sights exist in all creation than these aged giants of life, which the woodsmen's axe, in Wisconsin's younger days, most ruthlessly, though innocently, slaughtered. It was only recently, in fact, that people awakened to the depressing situation, that the lands of the nation are in danger of total and ruinous devastation, unless steps are taken to reforest the vast cut-over areas, and preserve, if only for its scenic wonder, the small amount of remaining virgin wood lands. Wisconsin now has small areas of such land scattered throughout about twenty of the north woods' counties.

WHERE FOREST MONARCHS RULE

The Northern Lakes park, lying largely between the north and the south forks of the Flambeau river, along the boundary of Price and Sawyer counties offer one of these rare spots of beauty. The park is in a region of practically virgin forest, where the woodsmen's axe was stayed.

Here one may see Wisconsin as it has lain untouched since the days when the Pilgrim fathers landed. Here are massive forest trees 200 and 300 years old, which girdle a group of beautiful lakes, as well as follow the bent and meandering course of the north fork of the Flambeau river. The climate is exhilarating and invigorating, the park being 1,400 feet above sea level, with delightfully cool nights. The forest is what lumbermen call a mixed stand, including pine, hemlock, birch, maple, basswood, ash, elm, ironwood, poplar and oak, with here and there a clump of balsam, spruce or cedar.

TREES THREE CENTURIES OLD

Some of the trees tower to majestic heights. A section of the pine cut, at the edge of the forest, shows it to be about 300 years old. Huge white pines tower so high that one feels like a dot beside them. A group of lakes, twelve of them, are set like gems in the shadowy confines of the forest.—Lone Lake, Round Lake, Loon Lake, Lake of the Pines, and

No Other Car Like This

A New and Larger Victory Six
by DODGE BROTHERS

Until you have seen, experienced and passed upon Victory smartness and performance, you can't possibly realize what a great car the new Victory Six is—and why the world is so emphatically sold on its amazing value.

NEW AND EXCLUSIVE Victory Six construction sets the highest standard yet known for riding ease and roadability.

BODY AND CHASSIS are mutually designed for each other. The body is bolted directly to the chassis frame, replacing the usual body sills and eliminating body overhang.

RECENT AND VITAL improvements have been announced including still greater roominess and luxury, wider doors and windows, greater vision areas, more generous leg room and still richer interior appointments.

BRILLIANT Victory Six performance is unparalleled for quick pick-up, instant acceleration, speed and flexibility.

Three Great Driving Advantages of Exclusive Victory Construction

Lowering the center of gravity brings the weight of body and passengers nearer the ground. You feel that you are riding IN the car and NOT ON it. The Victory grips the road more firmly, and is safer and easier to handle on sharp curves.

Victory riding ease on all kinds of roads is nothing less than marvelous. The strength and rigidity of Victory coachwork contributes to the enjoyment of passengers by eliminating squeaks and rattles.

The perfection of Victory balance benefits all phases of performance. Steering is amazingly easy, acceleration is faster and smoother, and hydraulic four-wheel braking is extraordinarily efficient.

PRICES—Touring Car, $995; Roadster, $995; Coupe, $1045; 4-Door Sedan, $1095; DeLuxe Sedan, $1170; DeLuxe 4-Pass. Coupe, $1170; Sport Roadster, $1245; Sport Touring Car, $1245; Sport Sedan, $1295—f.o.b. Detroit.

A PAGE OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

BEAUTY HINTS

In spite of Tony's enthusiastic report on the degree of Harry Blaine's "crush" on her, Crystal spent a rather tame Sunday after her near-drowning in the swimming pool at the Marlboro Country Club. The young reporter did telephone about noon to inquire if she were any the worse for her very thorough wetting, and he did speak for a date "soon," but the only caller who came to sustain Crystal's always shaky belief in her own popularity was George Pruitt. And who knew, Crystal asked herself dispiritedly, but that he really came to be near Faith?

There was a big Sunday dinner at two o'clock, and Crystal was uncomfortably aware that she had eaten more calories than her painstakingly worked-out diet chart allowed her.

She couldn't even find the society section of the Sunday paper, to read about the doings of the fortunate rich of whom she would never be one, unless she married a rich man . . . Marriage! The word was never far out of Crystal's mind. Suppose Harry Blaine was crazy about her. He was just a reporter, and she'd heard that reporters didn't make much money . . . But his voice had sounded awfully cordial and concerned when he telephoned. . . . Would "soon" be really soon? Why hadn't she pinned him down? He'd probably expected her to name a date; other girls had no compunction about leaping upon a man like that. . . . Wouldn't it be all right for her to call him up and say something like this:

"Oh, Harry, do be an angel and rescue me!" Her voice could be dramatically muted, as she added: "I'm stuck with a dreadful bore, George Pruitt's here to see me—son of the Lincoln Pruitts, you know, but—oh, I'm being terrible, aren't I? But I must talk with someone today who really interests me intellectually or—die!"

No, it wouldn't do, she decided. Some might hear her. Besides, George was a dear, and she'd be delighted if he really cared for her, instead of for Faith. These "until death" men! Tiresome! It was a shame for him to remain a bachelor with all his money. . . . And then, if she just said those things to Harry Blaine, he might get the idea she was "highbrow" and it was generally conceded that that was fatal!

BAKED OYSTER AND POTATO SANDWICHES

Two cups hot mashed potato, 2 tablespoons butter, 1-2 teaspoons salt, 1-4 teaspoon pepper, 1 egg, 2 tablespoons milk, oysters.

Add butter, salt and pepper and eggs beaten with milk to hot mashed potato. Form into small flat cakes about 2 inches in diameter and one-half inch thick. Pat oysters dry between cloths and put one on half of the potato cakes. Cover with remaining cakes and bake on buttered pan in a hot oven until the potato browns. Serve at once.

George got the idea that Crystal found him intensely interesting. He asked her to lunch with him Monday.

On Monday morning, when Crystal entered her office at the Lincoln Pruitt Hardware Company she found that Miss Morse, the dowdy, middle-aged billing clerk was there ahead of her, deep in confidences with Miss Harris, her particular crony. When Crystal had taken off her hat and was raising her typewriter, Miss Morse remarked, in a falsely conspiratorial voice:

"Well, Miss Hathaway, I see that you have become famous already! Some of us live in Stanton all our lives without getting our names in the society columns."

Crystal whirled to face her fellow-worker, her hazel eyes big with amazement. "Will you let me see the paper, please, Miss Morse? I haven't seen it. By the way, I saw your name in the paper last week, in the lodge notes. You were hostess for your chapter of the Daughters of something-or-other, weren't you?" she could not resist adding catishly, for she knew that Miss Morse was gleaming . . .

MUSSOLINI FOR BIGGER BABY CROP IN ITALY

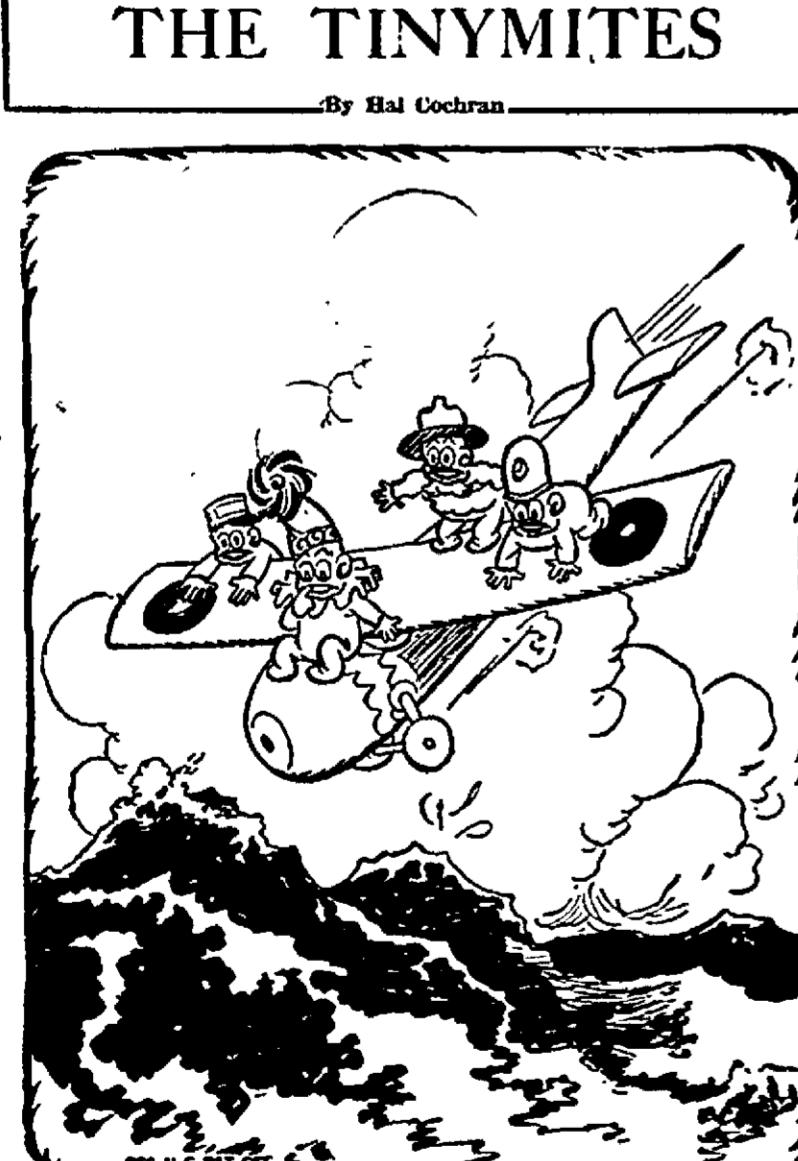

Mussolini is not only all steamed up about this growing independence of women, but he now rises to remark that Italy needs more children. In other breaths, he breaks forth about Italy's need for fresh pasture wherein her too thick population may spread and nourish itself. Even the great seem to speak their little inconsistencies.

LOVER BACKS

Book racks, closet poles and so on should be made low enough for children to put things away by themselves.

FLAPPER FANNY SAYS—

By Hal Cochran

READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE

IT was a thrilling sight to see the Tinies sailing merrily right through the air upon their plane. "Say, this is great," cried one. "But I just cannot understand why we don't flop right down and land. This is about the queerest thing to me beneath the sun."

Then up spoke Scouty Tinymite. "Why, shucks, this plane is built just right to ride the breeze. That's why we do not take a sudden flop. You see, if it were balanced wrong, we couldn't make it sail along. Twould tip right over sideways and then whirl around and drop."

And then they noticed, down below, that trees and fields began to show. Said Scouty, "Look! We're heading down. No doubt we're going to land. But not a thing will go amiss if we keep sailing just like this. If we arrive in saline just like that, surely we'll be grand."

The plane soared with apparent ease until the tops of many trees

Mary Pickford's Home

Often pointed out as the most beautiful home in California, Pickfair, the Beverly Hills home of Mary Pickford and Douglas Fairbanks, has just undergone complete interior redecoration. Here you see several of its charming and spacious rooms. Pickfair treats its upstairs hallways, left, like a living room and makes of it a charming spot. Everything in the room is English 18th Century. The round Savonniere rug strikes the color note which is carried out in decorative glazed chintz curtains with floral valance. The davenport and wing chairs repeat it. The little lamps are Royal Worcester ones. The living room, right, has luxurious beauty, yet achieves peaceful simplicity. Each of its very wide chairs and the deep davenport have the thrill of sleeping in famous beds and sitting on famous chairs. All the furniture here comes from the Baroness Burdette Coutts collection, London.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

BY SISTER MARY

BREAKFAST — Baked pears, cereal, cream, broiled tripe, creamed potatoes, crisp toast, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON — Baked oyster and potato sandwiches, cabbage and celery salad, brown bread and butter sandwiches, pompadour pudding, milk, tea.

DINNER — Baked potato tenderloin, twice baked sweet potatoes, fried apples, spinach and tomato salad, peach cobbler, milk, coffee.

The fried apples are cooked in just enough butter to prevent burning and are not really "fried" at all. They can be cut in sectional slices or across the fruit, masking when the cores are removed. Choose a tender skinned apple and a prince could not marry a commoner.

For one thing, it was necessary for Viscount Morio Matsudaira, the girl's uncle, to adopt her before the ceremony so that he could act as her father at the wedding, because her own parents possessed no title, and a prince could not marry a commoner.

We laugh at this clever way of getting over a technical stumbling block, just as we find many phases of a royal Oriental wedding amazing. It is very certain, however, that the Orientals could laugh just as heartily at the hypocrisy of many of our customs in order to get around a technicality, and also find many of our marriage customs such as showers, rice, old shoes, bridesmaids' and ushers' gifts, ring in the cake, and tossing of the bridal bouquet, and all the rest, as queer as we find their customs.

UNCLE ADOPTS NIECE SO SHE CAN WED PRINCE

BY ALLENE SUMNER

When the pretty little Japanese girl, Setsu Matsudaira, who, as daughter of Japan's former ambassador to America, attended a girl's school in Washington until very recently, was wed to Prince Chichibu, heir presumptive to the throne of Japan, various strange ceremonies took place.

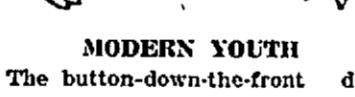

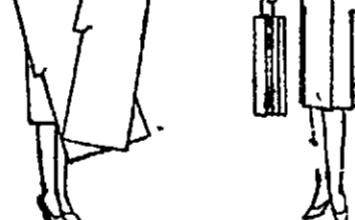

For one thing, it was necessary for Viscount Morio Matsudaira, the girl's uncle, to adopt her before the ceremony so that he could act as her father at the wedding, because her own parents possessed no title, and a prince could not marry a commoner.

We laugh at this clever way of getting over a technical stumbling block, just as we find many phases of a royal Oriental wedding amazing. It is very certain, however, that the Orientals could laugh just as heartily at the hypocrisy of many of our customs in order to get around a technicality, and also find many of our marriage customs such as showers, rice, old shoes, bridesmaids' and ushers' gifts, ring in the cake, and tossing of the bridal bouquet, and all the rest, as queer as we find their customs.

BEHAVIOR ON STREET CARE OF PARENTS

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

A bout this time of year the question usually comes up: "Who is responsible for the behavior of children going to and from school—the school or the parent?"

Itrate citizens living on streets near school buildings are very likely to shake their fists under the noses of school principals and teachers and denounce a lax supervisor that permits their lawns and flower beds to be tramped down, their sidewalks to be marked with chalk, their dogs chased, their property littered with papers or otherwise abused.

PARENTS RESPONSIBLE

The truth of the matter is that school supervisors are not responsible for children after they are off school property. That is, to be strictly legal, after they have left the pavement belonging to school property.

No one is responsible for what a child does en route to school or home except the parents or guardian of that child.

I think it behoves all parents to give their children a little course of instruction in behavior on the street, whether they are of the type that chalk up sidewalks or not.

Most children are not deliberately destructive of property, but are merely careless. They throw away papers and candy wrappers without thinking twice about it. One wouldn't dare so much difference, but hundreds, each contributing his little bit, can make a street very unsightly.

A LESSON IN CITIZENSHIP

So it would be an act of real citizenship to tell children these things: not to throw any paper on streets or lawns or sidewalks, not even the smallest scrap; not to tramp on lawns or flower beds; not to touch shrubbery or flowers; not to throw stones or balls where they can do any damage; not to touch automobiles; not to write on steps or pavements. And when winter comes children should be warned about dangerous slides where people may get hurt, and about throwing snow-balls.

Teach them that good citizenship includes not only proper behavior on the street, but in respecting the property rights of others.

Household Hints

FLOATING DISHES

New sponge soap dishes are on the market, colorful and inexpensive. They float about, holding the soap, aloft.

BATHROOM ENSEMBLE

Children can have their toothbrushes, soap, wash rag, towel and bath salts all match. If each child has his own color, the evening bath-time becomes less of an ordeal, for the children love the color of their things.

STICKING DOORS

Doors and drawers that stick are a nuisance. If you rub the offending article with soap or bees-wax, its annoyance will cease.

FRUIT PICTURES

Go up into the attic and find one of the old fruit pictures that used to hang in the dining room. Have it renovated and then hang in the living room. They are stylish.

FASHION HINTS

CREPE AND FUR

A beige wool crepe frock has the pepulm of its jumper edged with shaved beige caracul and a little flaring jacket of the caracul completes the costume.

NOVEL COLLAR

A black broadcloth coat, with graceful lines has a summer ermine collar that buttons with loops up the front and has a bow-knot at the ermine at the back.

DOTTED PEPPERMINT

A peppermint green chiffon frock has polka dots of silver. They are of infinitesimal size in the bodice, larger over the hips and from the hem depth of the full skirt they grow to coin dots.

LACE JABOTS

A black velvet afternoon frock has a collarless neck that fastens at the left side, from which point a lovely lace jabot hangs. The skirt's yoke fastens the same way and has a similar lace jabot, only longer and fuller.

Fashion Plaques

PINK BATHROOMS
There is an increasing vogue for pink bathrooms, because of the psychological effect of that color. It is not necessary to buy colored plumbing to get color in the bathroom. Tint the walls and have curtains, towels and so on.

Bendel Chooses A Suit, Evening Gown And Ensemble For A Week End

BY HENRI BENDEL

New York—The week-end house party for the big football game is one of the most important dates in a young girl's life.

The kind of time she has depends largely upon the clothes she carries along. Girls in their teens are apt to have a self-consciousness that can be overcome if they are sure they look their best and that other guests are casting admiring glances at the various costumes they wear.

Three changes of costume are enough for a week-end, if a girl chooses wisely. And of course a toocat, preferably of fur.

First there is the suit or ensemble she travels in, which in some ways is the most important, since she wears it when she makes her first impression on the party. And every woman knows how important first impressions are!

MAY BE SEMI-FORMAL

If she chooses this with taste and discretion, it will be formal enough to give her a feeling of perfect grooming and appropriateness when she arrives and yet snappy enough to make her the cynosure of envious eyes when she wears it Saturday morning for whatever informal entertainment the boys have planned.

Second, there is the evening gown for the ball given after the team has won. This should be one of those desirable gowns that is perfect when it is a formal affair and not too lavishly decorative, should the dance turn more informality.

Lastly, there is the dressy suit or ensemble for Sunday wear, and sometimes to wear for the game itself. If the girls decide to be ornamental as possible to the section reserved for the house party.

TWEED FOR THE SUIT

I have selected three costumes and a coat that seem to be ideal for a week-end house party.

For the travelling suit and perhaps the game, I suggest a smart tweed suit, in beige and rust red. The short coat is simple tailored with a nonchalance that the rigidly formal tailored suit never knows. The blouse is of beige faille crepe, tying at the front side with a full, soft bow. A little applied design of the tweed, at the left side of the blouse, has a similar bow of the silk falling from it.

The skirt has a wide panel of pleats across the left side. A beige sports belt in fine, soft felt has a knitted band and jaunty bow of beige and rust. The raccoon coat, folded over a chair, has a gay lining of checked flannel, in rust red, beige and brown. Her purse and shoes are brown.

With these two blouses can be worn, one very formal of metal cloth or lame, the other of flat crepe, banded in velvet. One is appropriate for an informal tea-dansant while the other is perfect if she chooses to wear this suit to the game.

For the formal dance, nothing could be lovelier than a dawn pink faille taffeta from Lanvin. It has a very full skirt, achieved by a rather intricate circular cut, with a charming overskirt over a drop skirt with longer sides. The draped bodice and one side tied. The loveliest touch of all is the dainty little chiffon bertha, sparkling decorated by paillettes in three shades of pink and silver.

For the formal suit, nothing is a better choice this season than a wine-red velveteen suit. It has a charming slender line to its straight coat that still has a roomy cut. The skirt is slender lined, also, with a wrap-around skirt that allows freedom for walking.

The coat's collar and muff are distinctive touches. A little raccoon choker ends in a very full ruffle of the velvet. A little raccoon muff has full velvet ends so that it seems to be a mere continuation of the cuffs. The little ruffle of matching velvet has rose beige velvet flowers over one ear.

With these two blouses can be worn, one very formal of metal cloth or lame, the other of flat crepe, banded in velvet. One is appropriate for an informal tea-dansant while the other is perfect if she chooses to wear this suit to the game.

LEGION SQUAD AND DUTCHMEN BATTLE TO SCORELESS TIE

Muddy Field Makes Play of Both Teams Rugged Throughout Game

Kaukauna—Little Chute's Flying Dutchmen held the Kaukauna American Legion eleven to a scoreless tie in a Northeastern Wisconsin State football league game at Kaukauna Sunday afternoon. Little Chute outplayed the Kawmen during the first half and part of the last quarter when they had the ball one foot from the goal line.

Both teams found going rough on account of the muddy field, and many good plays were spoiled on that account. Only two long runs were made, one for 30 yards by Schuerle, Little Chute's right end, and the other, Tille, Kau full back, for 30 yards.

Little Chute started the game with many trick plays which bid the locals puzzled for a while. Little Chute punted to the Kaukauna one foot line in the first quarter, but Hovde punted out of danger. In the last quarter Verbeten fumbled a punt and it was recovered by Little Chute on Kaukauna's one foot line. They then took their fourth time out and were penalized five yards for it. This was the closest threat to score by either side during the game.

G. Hartjes, half back, starred in the backfield for the Hollanders. He showed plenty of speed and carried the ball in fine style. Schuerle "Dead-horse" did outstanding work in the Little Chute line. He played at end and did the punting for the Chutes. He punted on par with Hovde.

Verbeten and Miller played well in the backfield for the local city. In the line Peters, "old-reliable," played the usual sterling game at center. Hovde also showed up well at center.

Schuler showed up exceptionally well at his tackle position and Olm, a Legion veteran, was one of the chief factors in stopping the Little Chute touchdown in the last quarter when they were five yards from the goal line.

Chute kicked to Kaukauna at the start of the game. Kaukauna punted and Little Chute took the ball to the Kaukauna 25 yard line. This was the closest they came to the Kaukauna goal in the first half. Kaukauna was also outplayed in the second quarter, but came back strong in the third and at one time had the ball on the 10 yard line. The last quarter Verbeten recovered a foot and the Chuters recovered a foot from the goal line. They received a penalty however and then failed to make the necessary five yards. Kaukauna took the ball and the game ended in a scoreless tie.

EXPEDIENCY WAS DISREGARDED BY GROVER CLEVELAND

Action Defeated Him, Later Elected, Finally Caused Repudiation

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The two Cleveland-Harrison battles are described in this chapter of "The Presidential Parade." Rodney Dutcher's series on presidential politics.)

By RODNEY DUTCHER

(Copyright, 1928, by Post Pub. Co.)

Washington—"What's the good of being re-elected if you don't stand for anything?"

That question was asked by honest President Grover Cleveland. His disregard for political expediency helped elect him, then defeated him, re-elected him over the man who beat him and finally caused his repudiation by his own party.

Being the first Democratic president since Buchanan, Cleveland was beset by Democratic politicians demanding a clean sweep of federal offices. He compromised with the reforming Mugwumps who elected him and with his party's spoilsmen, pleasing neither and enraged the latter when he demanded further civil service reform.

MAKES ENEMIES

He made more enemies when he stopped pension frauds by vetoing many private bills. He fought off radical Democrats demanding free silver. Finally he came out flat against the protective tariff, explaining: "Perhaps I made a mistake from a party standpoint; but, damn it, it was right."

He did make a mistake from a party standpoint, for he lost many Democratic Votes in manufacturing cities. But he was the first party candidate since 1840 to be nominated by acclamation without a vote.

The Republican convention was no more defeat for James G. Blaine's name was before the conventions, from 1876 to 1892, and his only nomination was followed by his 1884 defeat. After 1876 he became fatalistic, but he still tried.

A few months before convention time in 1888 party feelings were overwhelmingly for him. Then he withdrew in two emphatic letters from Italy, which allowed at least 20 favorite sons to get into the race, including Chauncey Depew and Lincoln's son Robert. All through the convention the whole country expected a Blaine stampede, but he never had more than 45 votes.

It was the same old story of a popular candidate unable to gain against boss opposition, and a small, energetic group working for a dark horse without enemies, who in this case was Harrison. He gained rapidly until his nomination on the eighth ballot. The convention, prolonged for a week, named Levi P. Morton of New York for second place and the ticket entered the campaign on a platform calling for a protective tariff, sobriety and purity, and Irish home rule.

The doubtful states were New York, Indiana, New Jersey and Connecticut. Harrison got the biggest, New York and Indiana. The candidates had fought with dignity, making it a straight tariff fight. Industry had combined and beaten Cleveland. Cleveland won a popular plurality of 10,000 and would have been elected but for his defeat by the 13,000 out of 1,300,000 in New York, when he had been betrayed by Tammany and Charles A. Dana. The national vote:

Harrison 5,440,000 223

Cleveland 5,340,000 165

Back in power, the Republicans paid their debt to industry, but got in wrong with the American people. They had bare control of Congress and jammed through a legislative program after giving a seat to any Republican who would contest a Democrat's election. This program included the McKinley tariff bill, raising duties so high that prices promptly shot up and enraged consumers. When the 1890 elections came the voters were angry and taught the party a lesson. They elected 236 Democratic congressmen and only 88 Republicans.

NOMINATED AGAIN

Harrison is generally underestimated, but he was a good, able man. His first Congress had quelled the administration, however, and led to his defeat.

Leading politicians opposed his re-nomination and wanted Blaine, who left them flat in February by refusing to run, although he later expressed grief when not nominated. Blaine won on the first ballot, although Blaine and McKinley had 182 apledge.

Governor David B. Hill of New York desperately opposed Cleveland's renomination, getting his state convention to meet in February and elect a full delegation for himself. Cleveland was always unpopular with the bosses and they charged him with defeating the party by injecting the tariff in '88. The other states accused Hill of double-crossing Cleveland in '88 and told Tammany to go chase itself, nominating Cleveland on the first ballot.

Cleveland won probably because the McKinley tariff had brought great profits to factory owners, but they hadn't passed any of them on in higher wages for workers, and many farmers were seeing their mortgages foreclosed.

He carried the south, all doubtful states and Illinois, California and Wisconsin. Fusion with Populists to beat Harr in captured Colorado, Idaho, Kansas and Nevada. Third parties had 1 per cent of the vote. The popular and electoral counts:

Cleveland 5,66,000 227

Harrison 5,375,000 147

Weaver (Pop) 1,641,000 22

Fusionists had 253,000 and the Socialists 21,000 popular votes.

TEN LOCAL MEN AT WALTON CONVENTION

President of Minnesota Game Association Closes Meeting With Address

The state convention of the Isaac Walton league at Wausau, Oct. 18 and 19, closed with an address by Sam Anderson, president of the Minnesota Game Protective association, Friday afternoon. Mr. Anderson told the convention about the refuge system in agricultural sections of Minnesota. Approximately 350 members of the Isaac Walton league and their families were present for the convention. Ten local people were present.

One of the features of the convention was an illustrated lecture presented by Jack Miner of Kincoville, Ontario, at the Elks hall Thursday evening following the convention banquet at Wausau hotel. Mr. Miner showed moving pictures of his wild game refuge in the wilds of Canada. Other speakers at the convention were Seth Gordon, conservation director of the national league; Ralph Zon, director of the lakes and states federal experimental station; Aldo Leopold, director of the game survey for arms and ammunition; Dr. Merritt L. Jones, Wausau; H. L. Stoddard, director of quail investigations in the south; Clarke Everett; William Naether; William Cox; Captain C. E. Culler of the Federal board of fisheries; Professor George Kammerer of the University of Wisconsin; O. H. Johnson, director of the South Dakota fish and game refuge and Sam Anderson president of the Minnesota Game Protective association.

Up to the end of September there had been 1,388 new cars registered in the county since the first of the year as compared with 1,226 during the same period last year.

A total of 72,822 automobiles were registered throughout the state during the period up to Sept. 30 as compared with 70,539 in the state in the same period of 1927. In September there were 8,053 new registrations in the state and in the same month last year there were 6,328 registrations.

The city of Appleton, which had 68 registrations in September, did not meet the records for several other cities of about the same size. Following is a list of cities with the number of registrations for September: Beloit, 76; Fond du Lac, 77; Green Bay, 112; La Crosse, 104; Menomonie, 73; Oshkosh, 93; Sheboygan, 104; Milwaukee, 1,843; Neenah, 36; Menasha, 18; Marinette, 18.

Employers of the Wisconsin-Michigan Power company now are tearing up rails on their interurban line between Menasha and Appleton, the last step in abandonment of the line. Permission to abandon the line was given by the railroad commission last spring. Work of tearing up the rails between Kaukauna and Appleton was completed several weeks ago.

In the cities of Neenah and Menasha, the rails have been taken out where they cross railway tracks and the railroad companies have put in whole sections of tracks. Street department employees in the two cities have covered the rails in many places with asphalt, especially where the rails had sagged and caused low spots on the highways. Only in Kaukauna has the company taken tracks out of paved streets.

Dr. G. W. Rastede spent the weekend with friends at Milwaukee. Miss Viola Noll spent the weekend with relatives at Milwaukee.

COUNTY REGISTERS 123 NEW CARS IN SEPTEMBER

A total of 123 new passenger automobiles were registered from Outagamie co during September as compared to only 93 registrations for the same month in 1927, according to a report from the secretary of state.

"An Able Man"

STAGE And SCREEN

COMMERCIAL FISHERS MEET IN MILWAUKEE

A large number of commercial fishermen from states bordering on Lake Michigan gathered at Hotel Blatz in Milwaukee Saturday with members of the Wisconsin Federation of Commercial Fishermen and state and federal authorities and discussed uniform fish laws and conservation of fish. Samuel Sigman, Appleton attorney, and general director and counsel for the state federation which sponsored the meeting presided at the gathering. Representatives of conservation commissions from several states also attended the meeting.

Dix is at his best in the happy-go-lucky role he portrays in this picture. While he has his serious moments, his ability to handle the laughs makes "Moran" one of his finest to date.

Ruth Elder, the pretty aviator who drew so much attention with her almost successful flight across the Atlantic, makes her professional motion picture debut in this picture. She performs in a veteran manner, and impresses one as being a natural screen "find."

Ger. in "Mother Machree" was directed by John Ford, widely-known Irish director. This symbolic epic of motherhood will have a 5 day showing at the Elite Theatre commencing today.

Dix plays an irresponsible youngster who excites his rich uncle's ire by getting into jail. He wants to go to China because the girl he has fallen for is going there, so he selects the United States Marine Corps to send him there. What he hasn't found out, however, is that the young lady is the daughter of the marine general.

The picture is one of quick action in which members of the supporting cast rise to the occasion. Roscoe Karns gives an admirable characterization of Dix's buddy, and Duke Martin portrays a hard boiled sergeant in a typical manner. Brooks Benedict does excellent "menacing" as the villain and Capt. E. H. Calvert is perfect as the marine general.

The story was written for the screen by Linton Wells, famed war correspondent. Frank Strayer, who directed the production, lives up to his previous hits, and injects plenty of breezy action into the play.

All in all it is a very pleasing picture.

ROLE OF IRISH MOTION PICTURE "MOTHER MACHREE" ASSIGNED TO BELLE BENNETT

In assigning Belle Bennett to the title role in "Mother Machree," Fox Film executives entrusted to the star of "Stella Dallas" the most problematical character in the picture. Brooks Benedict does excellent "menacing" as the villain and Capt. E. H. Calvert is perfect as the marine general.

The story was written for the screen by Linton Wells, famed war correspondent. Frank Strayer, who directed the production, lives up to his previous hits, and injects plenty of breezy action into the play.

"At one time I had a 'sleeping spell' that lasted four days and nights, and my people could arouse me only with difficulty and for a short while, and even then I wasn't fully conscious. I have been under treatment of four of the best doctors in this community, but nothing they gave me seemed to do me any good."

"I decided to try Sargon and I noticed an improvement the third day. I began to get hungry, and was delighted to find that what I ate agreed with me perfectly. As I continued the treatment I improved from day to day. I am now on my fourth bottle and am like a different woman. I am up and am able to do all my housework, including the washing and scrubbing and scrubbing for my family of six. My weight has increased from 110 to 120 pounds."

The above remarkable statement was recently made to Mr. W. J. Daugh, proprietor of Daugh's Drug Store, Scarey, Ark., by Mrs. Emma May Helms, a well known and highly respected resident on R. F. D. Route 1, Pangburn, Ark. The statement was witnessed by three prominent business men of Scarey — two of whom are officials of the Union Bank & Trust Co., and the third Manager of one of the leading department stores of the city. Sargon may be obtained in Appleton at Voigt's Drug Store.

Some of her best motion picture roles have been mother parts, but she is well qualified for a wide range of portrayals. Her most recent appearance in Fox Films was in "The Lily," directed by Victor Schertzinger.

Ben Koepke, another contender for the presidency, was unable to appear on election night because during the afternoon he attempted to insert his authority as Kibitzer at a meeting similar to that which Louis "crashed." Aronica, iodine and mercuriochrome failed to alleviate Ben's injuries sufficiently to allow him to attend the meeting and he lost the office through forfeiture.

By reason of his aggressive spirit and the unrelenting manner in which he carried out all by-laws of the club Stormy Hogrever was named official bouncer.

Efforts are being made by Secretary Steinbauer and President Keller to bring the King King Kibitzer, head of the national organization, to Appleton for the installation of officers next month.

Other charter members of the organization include Cash Miller, Lee Neugarten, Army Gneiner, Bill Steens and Dave Smith.

One member claimed Mike Steinbauer, who is secretary and treasurer of the organization, had this rule made for his personal benefit.

By virtue of leadership as Kibitzer Louis Keller was elected president of the organization.

Louis successfully proved his ability for the office when he butted in on a ladies card party one afternoon last week and came out with nothing more than several long scratches on his face and a slight lump in his left eye.

Lawrence Vikings Defeat Lake Forest Redmen, 15 And 7

Trail During First Half, Take Lead In Third Period

Game Characterized by Rough Playing and Numerous Penalties

Those Vikings finally came through for their great Dane leader and for the several hundred loyal fans who figured they might amount to something in the football world. But before doing so they gave both their coach and the fans sound reason for heart failure by playing football as it shouldn't be played for 30 full minutes. Then they played the game as they have been taught to play it, and as a result defeated Lake Forest, Saturday afternoon, 15 to 7.

During that first half the Redmen from Illinois ripped over tackle time after time for short but substantial gains, the Viking linemen melting away like snow before the sun. Line plays of almost the simplest nature netted yardage and to make things worse the Vikings seemed at sea when their team came to carrying the ball.

Fortunately, however, Coach Clarence Rasmussen has a way of talking to his protégés between halves that makes them want to go out and do things. Or perhaps the Vikings were kidding the public, for when the third quarter opened they started down the field, smashing their way across the enemy goal, every man in the backfield being able to net at least a few yards at a plunge.

When they saw the kick for the point after touchdown fail and they realized they still trailed in what had been picked for their first victory of the season, they again smashed away at the Redmen and tossed a few passes for variety, carrying the ball to the enemy five yard line. Here, however, the Redmen held and then Gib St. Mitchell dusted off his toe and with that little bit of confidence, Fanny Bloomer, holding the ball booted the pigskin between the uprights and the Vikings were ahead.

The Lake Foresters threatened once during the last stages of the game but the Vikings beat them back and held for downs in the shadow of their own goal line. Then, with the aid of the loss of temper on the part of several Redmen and subsequent penalties, the Vikings scored another touchdown and sent the folks on their way home, happy.

A year ago the Vikings returned home from Lake Forest with tales of rough playing on the part of the Redmen and Saturday the home folks saw what last year's team talked about. On several occasions the Lake Foresters were penalized for clipping and for rough playing, the fin' break coming when Fritz Schaefer, Viking center, was K. O. ed with a rabbit punch by Mayer, Lake Forest pivot man.

The ball had been taken far into Lake Forest territory in the fourth quarter and had been placed on the Redmen's line because of rough playing. The Vikings lined up for the next play, called their singles and were waiting for the ball to be tossed when Mayer's fist caught Shauer on the back of the neck and he rolled over, completely out. Mayer was banished from the game, and Schaefer carried off the field. A riot might have ensued had not Lawrence officials asked the crowd to control its self.

Humphrey playing guard also came in for a share of the comment.

Brussat carried the ball on numerous occasions and showed more ability at squirming through an open field than ever before. Red Humphrey who formerly was a backfield man, added power to the line and appeared as much at home there as in the backfield.

MOVIE STARS HAVE MUCH TROUBLE WITH IMMIGRATION LAWS

Red Tape and Other Difficulties Make Life Miserable for Actors

BY KIRKE L. SIMPSON

Washington—Woes of the movie stars who have fallen foul of the immigration laws and come screaming to Washington for help would fill a very large book. They are many and the technical cases involved are almost as numerous as the persons.

Rarely does an exact duplicate case put in an appearance. As a general rule, however, the explanation of the individual difficulty is the same; failure either willfully or thoughtlessly to comply with some bit of red tape at a previous date.

The movie actor fraternity is frequently in immigration hot water owing to the fact that its members are within the preferred class of "artists" admitted to this country for temporary stay and employment without regard to quota limitations. Six months is the life of an original entry permit of this character, extendable indefinitely, however, six months at a crack. Failure to get those extensions is the slip-up that frequently spells subsequent disaster to plans or hopes. It takes a lot of argument to convince a hard-boiled governmental board that the failure was innocent and inadvertent and not due to determination to just squat in the United States permanently in defiance of law and regulation.

COMEEDIAN'S "TRAGEDY"

One young English-born screen comedian of considerable note, who overstayed himself more than a year and then decided to take a trip home and come back, found the door ready to be slammed in his face when he tried to straighten things out. He came within an ace of being shipped home instantaneously as a violator of law and only a most persuasive tongue saved him and won him an additional six months' grace. By that time, however, he had built up an earning capacity of a thousand a month or more and grown so fond of the United States that he determined to seek American citizenship.

It was no go, for you can't apply for citizenship unless you enter under a quota visa.

The comedian was in a box. He knew it would take months if not years to get a quota visa if he went back to England and yet his younger brother, drawn over by the movie lad's glowing account of things American, had come by that route and was in process of becoming an American. The comedian barged across the Mexican border and wheeled American consulates all over Mexico for aqua status. In vain.

MARKING TIME

Finally he gave it up as hopeless. He came back under his artist's entry permit extension, threw up his highly profitable movie job with two months of his legal stay under that extension still to run and set sail for dear old London. He was going to file an application for a visa quota and wait for it in England. He could do nothing else, for his citizenship for an artist's entry permit terminated the moment he applied for quota immigration status.

Last heard of by his previous American employers, this prospective American citizen was picking up a living doing small jobs in London's cheaper music halls. He was earning perhaps a hundred or two hundred dollars a month as compared to his $250 a week or more in the United States and just waiting, that's all.

20 DEALERS SUPPLY

APPLETON WITH MILK

Twenty licensed distributors supply Appleton homes with milk and cream, according to Theodore Sanders, deputy health officer. Two of the dealers, Ray Lorenz and A. B. Kasslike, handle cream exclusively; the rest distribute both milk and cream.

In order to assure consumers of a quality product, Mr. Sanders conducts a monthly test of the product of every dealer. His tests reveal the amount of sediment and the percentage of cream, butterfat and bacteria. The minimum cream test in milk allowed by law is 3 per cent, and the minimum butterfat test of cream is 18 per cent, according to Mr. Sanders.

The 18 dealers handling both milk and cream are Appleton Pure Milk Co., Rainbow Dairy, Dietzen Dairy, Grimmers Dairy, Prospect Dairy, Hietpas Dairy, Potts-Wood Co., River Dale Dairy, Louis Stevens, Schindler Brothers, Heigl and Bosch Co., Valley Milk Co., Utisch's Dairy, Weyenberg's Dairy, Rather Dairy, Outagamie Milk Products Co., Scheffler Dairy and Langenberg Dairy.

STOREHOUSE FILLED WITH CABBAGE CROP

Schreiter Produce company at Greenville has filled its storage house and other available space with cabbage harvested from the fields in the vicinity, but farmers are still bringing in their product and the market continues firm. Farmers say one of the finest quality cabbage crops is being harvested this year, even though it is not a bumper crop.

80 Percent Of World Diamond Output Is Bought By Women Of America

BY DOROTHY RUSSELL
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

London—(AP)—American women now buy 80 percent of the diamond output of the world, according to merchants of Hatton Garden, a center of the world's diamond trade.

More than $35,000,000 have been sold to America during the past few months. It is estimated that 10,000,000 carats are now in America.

Since 1870, South Africa has been the center of the diamond industry, although Brazil and India also yield a large supply. The lower Vaal and the Orange rivers are the most productive sources of alluvial or river diamonds, which are so numerous along some parts of the banks that they can be picked up as easily as pebbles. To prevent appropriation by visitors or by native workers, government restrictions are severely enforced and a thorough examination is made of everyone leaving the compounds on the diamond fields.

The bulk of fine diamonds, however, is obtained from the hard bluish-green serpentine rock known as "blue ground" which is found in fissures or craters deep within the earth. The actual origin of the precious stone is mysterious. Chemically, it is similar to charcoal to which it can be reduced by combustion, but its physical properties are entirely different. Volcanic changes are presumed to be associated with its formation.

Diamonds were first discovered in South Africa in 1867 by children who, while playing on the banks of the Orange river, picked up what they thought was a shiny pebble, and toyed with it for days before their mother noticed it and showed it as a curiosity to a neighbor. It was sent in an unsealed envelope to Dr. W. G. Atherton, a mineralogist in Grahamstone, who identified it.

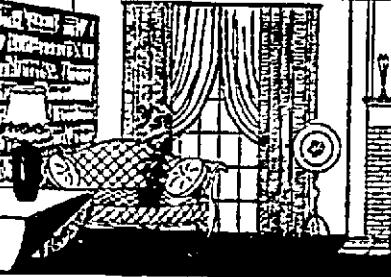

No one viewing a truckload of diamantiferous ground brought up through the shafts which connect the mine's tunnels with the surface, can tell whether the sensation of the world or only stone of minor value may be contained therein. The ground is first fed through perforated cylinders into shallow cylindrical troughs filled with water and equipped with revolving toothed arms which sweep the diamonds and other heavy minerals to the surface while the debris escapes from the center of the pan.

The diamonds and other minerals are then passed over sloping tables where they are shaken and fro under a stream of water which induces a second separation of the precious stones from the other concentrates. Then the residue is washed down a sloping table thickly coated with grease.

Diamonds have a peculiar affinity to grease and adhere to the table, while the other minerals are washed away. After being scraped off and the grease melted away, the gems are treated with a bath of hot caustic soda solution followed by a bath of hydrofluoric acid. They are then sorted and valued for size, purity, color and shape, and shipped to Amsterdam or Antwerp for cutting and polishing.

NEW DRAPERIES FOR A FEW CENTS By Mae Martin

All of us realize nowadays how bright-colored draperies seem to invite people in, and how warm touches of color in spreads, cushions and runners help to make us love our own surroundings.

No woman need deny herself these touches of cheer, because they can easily be had at the expense of a few cents and a little planning. Curtains that are faded or drab in color can be made bright and pleasing with a package or so of Diamond Dyes. Then spreads, covers, runners, etc. can be tinted or dyed to match. Anyone can do it. Tinting with Diamond Dyes is as easy as bluing, and dyeing takes just a little more time. Brilliant new colors appear like magic, right over the old, faded colors. Diamond Dyes give true, fadeless colors. They are the kind of dyes used when the cloth was made. Only Diamond Dyes produce perfect results. Insist on them and save disappointment.

My new book, "Color Craft," gives hundreds of dollar-saving suggestions for beautifying your home and clothes. 64 pages, fully illustrated in colors. It's FREE. Just write Mae Martin, Home Service Department, Diamond Dyes, Burlington, Vermont.

"The Big Hole" (above), the Premier diamond mine at Pretoria, South Africa, opened in 1902, is still yielding what appears to be an inexhaustible supply of gems. Some of the famous diamonds worn by Queen Mary of England (inset) came from the Premier mine.

WISCONSIN RANKS SECOND IN NATION IN MAKING TIRES

Oshkosh and Fond du Lac Included Among Important Rubber Centers

How many readers know that Wisconsin now ranks second in the nation in rubber tire manufacturing? Enough automobile tires and inner tubes are manufactured in Wisconsin factories each year to equip every one of the 707,869 cars and trucks now registered in the state with new tires. After every Wisconsin driver had provided his car with a new tire on each wheel and a new spare tire, there would still be 316,609 tires left for replacements. Five tire factories in the state employed 3,939 workers, paid out $5,394,471, in wages and produced $46,271,447 worth of tires and tubes in 1925. Present production is no doubt considerably in excess of these last available Federal Census of Manufactures figures which indicate that Wisconsin tire factories have an average daily production of between 12,000 and 13,000 tires and inner tubes. The fact that it would take about 2,000 box cars to deliver all the tires manufactured in one year in Wisconsin gives a fair idea of the importance of this industry. But rubber working in the Badger State does not end with tire manufacturing. Five factories are engaged in the production of a great variety of rubber articles among which are rubber boots, rubber heels, rubberized fabrics, rubber hose, rubber flooring, rubber stair treads and rubber clothing. These factories employed 273 workers in 1925, paid out $302,913 in wages and produced $1,614,144 worth of rubber articles. Important rubber working centers in the state are: Cudahy, Eau Claire, Fond du Lac, LaCrosse, Milwaukee, Oshkosh, Port Washington, Racine and Watertown. From the position of sixth in the nation in 1921, Wisconsin tire manufacturing climbed to fourth in 1923 and second in 1925. Ohio is far in the lead but our state tops New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Connecticut, Michigan and all the other tire manufacturing states. Tire and tube manufacturing holds the position of thirteenth in Wisconsin's family of industries.

AVOID UGLY PIMPLES

A plump face will not embarrass you much longer if you get a package of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The skin should begin to clear after you have taken the tablets a few nights.

Cleanse the blood, bowels and liver with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the successful substitute for calomel; there's no sickness or pain after taking them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do that which calomel does, and just as effectively, but their action is gentle and safe instead of severe and irritating.

No one who takes Olive Tablets is ever cursed with a "dark brown lustre," a bad breath, a dull lifeless, "no good" feeling, constipation, torpid liver, bad disposition or plump face.

Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; know them by their olive color.

Dr. Edwards spent years among patients afflicted with liver and bowel complaints and Olive Tablets are the immensely effective result. Take nightly for a week. See how much better you feel and look. 15c, 30c, 60c.

BEWARE THE COUGH FROM COLDS THAT HANG ON

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

During Theodore Roosevelt's second term, from 1905 to 1909, disorder broke out in Cuba. The United States took charge of the government until peace was restored. Oklahoma was admitted to the Union in 1907. At the end of his term, Roosevelt, with his son Kermit, sailed to Africa and spent a year collecting big game for the Smithsonian Institution.

In the election of 1908 William H. Taft, now chief justice of the United States Supreme Court, was nominated by the Republicans and elected.

Taft was Roosevelt's friend and had been first governor of the Philippines and served as Secretary of War in President Roosevelt's cabinet.

The Democratic choice had been William Jennings Bryan, then running the third time for the presidency. On the whole President Taft's administration was uneventful. A revision of the tariff caused great dissatisfaction. The sixteenth amendment to the Constitution, making an income tax legal, was ratified just before the end of his administration. WEST DE PERE WINS EASILY IN BATTLE WITH RED AND WHITE

Good Passing, End Runs and Criss - crosses Conquer New London Eleven

Special to Post-Crescent

New London — New London High playing on West De Pere's grounds on Saturday afternoon lost to West by a 30 to 26 score. West's offensive was made up of one end and a good forward passer who caught the Red and White sleeping for five touchdowns. Van Sistine at end was the star for West. On defense West De Pere ploughed through Bergland's line and had things pretty much their own way. Hoh's attempts to punt were feeble. He no sooner received the ball from his center than the entire De Pere squad were upon him. The Red and White line could not hold the heavier De Pere line, and the up river lads showed three touchdowns to their credit during the first quarter. These were gained by end runs, criss-crosses and Van Sistine's snapping of the passes.

Their scoring was halted for the time being when Dernbach and Dayton got off some pretty end runs and through the line gains. Aided by an intercepted pass, Bill Dayton smashed over the line, making the home boy's lone score. Their drop kick for the extra point failed. De Pere, after the kick-off, picked their holes and soon had the ball near the goal line. Garrot's 20 yard pass to Van Sistine brought the score just before the half ended 24-6.

Both teams fumbled and were forced to punt, with New London losing ground, on each exchange during the last half. De Pere's chance of scoring in this quarter was lost when a pass was intercepted. In the last quarter both teams were still punting. West changed its tactics when forty yards from the goal and Garrot's long pass to Van Sistine on the opposite side of the field netted 40 yards and the last touchdown.

In the second game of the double header East De Pere beat Sturgeon Bay 13-0, making their touch-downs on a pass and on line plunges. East De Pere kept the ball in Sturgeon Bay's territory most of the time. The victor will play a game here next Friday afternoon.

POLICE LOOKING FOR MAGAZINE SALESMAN

Charge Young Man Passed Worthless Check at Manawa and Left Many Bills

Special to Post-Crescent

Manawa—Officials have been unable to find any trace of Henry St. Arnold, the youthful magazine seller, who left this part of the country last week owing several Manawa and Hortonville merchants. He traded what is believed to be a stolen car to Ernest Fenske, local garage owner, together with a worthless check amounting to $595 for a new automobile, and he owes for clothes, a dental bill, and other obligations.

Mr. Fenske had a warrant sworn out at Appleton for St. Arnold's arrest. The sheriff there received word early this week that a man answering St. Arnold's description had been seen around Ashland and Superior and it is believed that he is making for Canada. Police officials throughout the state have been notified to be on the lookout.

When Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Miller and family and Mr. and Mrs. Victor Kotke went to Fremont for a visit with relatives they wondered why so many people pointed at their car in so surprised a manner. When they arrived at their destination, 21 miles from Manawa, they found a kitten on the running board of the automobile. The cat belonged at the Miller farm.

Otto Ploetz and Albert Abraham thought it was a skunk that killed two fine geese on the Ploetz farm last week, so they set a trap for the animal. Imagine Otto's surprise when he came out of the house one morning and found—not a pretty and somewhat dangerous black and white animal—but a big grey owl. The owl measured almost four feet across the wings.

CHINESE MINISTER HOLDS JOB DESPITE POLITICAL SCRAPS

Dr. Sao-ke Alfred Sze Weather's Government Changes in His Country

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON

Washington — There is one man in Washington to whom all the Chinese turnmoil of the last year or two has had deep personal significance. He is Dr. Sao-ke Alfred Sze, the Chinese minister, who has managed to retain that title, at least, through all the shifts of political power at Peking since 1921.

Strictly speaking, he has no diplomatic status here. The United States not having extended de jure recognition to the nationalist government that overthrew the late Chang Tsu-lin, Manchurian dictator. In that respect, however, Dr. Sze is in no different position than Minister MacMurray at Peking.

MAY GET CREDENTIALS

The Chinese diplomat, however, has weathered a succession of political storms at home and seems to enjoy the confidence of the nationalist regime, indicated by his recent appointment to represent it at Geneva whenever necessary for League of Nations purposes. He is said to expect to be formally accredited to Washington by the nationalists whenever the United States decides to extend full recognition. The fact that the new authorities at Peking commissioned C. C. Wu as special representative in the United States and named Wu as the Chinese negotiator rather than Sze, in proposing negotiations for a treaty of commerce, has created speculation as to whether Peking might not have it in mind to name Wu to the Washington diplomatic post ultimately.

Washington is watching developments in China carefully. There are signs of uneasiness as to how the nationalists are going to accomplish the ambitious stabilization and development program adopted at the Nanking conference of the nationalist party chiefs.

The recent visit to Washington of Sun Fo, nationalist leader and son of the late Dr. Sun Yat-sen, father of the Chinese revolution, afforded opportunity for Washington's viewpoint to be presented informally but very frankly to the Chinese authorities. Sun had already conferred with many American bankers to help the new government on its feet. While he was being entered by Dr. Sze here, he met several high government officials under such circumstances that plain speaking was possible.

Without question the Chinese visitor carried away the impression that the nationalists would have to do much to put their government in financial order before they could expect American capital to come to their assistance. The outstanding Chinese loans for which they assumed responsibility must be dealt with and the movement to oust foreign control of the customs administration, which forms about the only immediately available sure sources of revenue for the Peking central government, does not have a happy look in Washington eyes.

LOST PURSE WITH $270 IS MEANS OF REUNITING CHUMS

When Patrick Good, West Allis, reported last Sunday evening that his wife had lost a pocketbook in Riverside cemetery containing $270 he little reckoned he'd ever see the money again. And much less did he reckon the pocketbook would be the means of reuniting a boyhood friendship with a chum he had not seen for years. Yet that is what happened.

The loss was reported to police and it was the consensus of opinion that "honest" men are few and far between and that the chances of recovery were slight.

However, a few days later Mr. Good received a long distance telephone call from John Stein, Kimberly-rd. Mr. Stein, a boyhood friend of Mr. Good's, found the pocketbook, recognized Mr. Good's name on an enclosed card and in that manner located both the owner of the purse and his old friend. They once sat together in school.
